

Elocution

Origin

Elocution originated in England in the 18th and 19th centuries, and in the United States in the 19th century. The word comes from the Latin elocutio, which means "speaking style".

Elocution is a form of speaking. The exact time when humans began speaking is debated, with estimates ranging from 2 million to 50,000 years ago.

Elocution is not a speech it is different

Many famous people had their own elocution, this ranges from Mahatma Gandhi to Nelson Mandela .

Purpose

Elocution is the study of formal speaking, including pronunciation, grammar, style, and tone. It aims to help people become better speakers and to standardize errors in spoken and written English.

Importance

Elocution is important because it can help people develop their communication and public speaking skills. It can also help people feel more confident and empowered to share their thoughts.

Competitions

Elocution competitions are often held in schools and colleges, but can also be organized at the community level. Competitors are usually judged on their clarity, tone, pacing, expression, and body language.
